

WE NOMINATE

The 70 scientists, engineers and professional specialists, drawn from all sections of the country and including a half-dozen Princetonians, who are gathered here at the University's Graduate College for a highly significant two-week seminar on the broad subject of "Research Planning and Management". Sponsored by the Office of Naval Research, with the Princeton-based Naval Reserve Research Company 4-I shouldering the administrative burdens, the current seminar marks the first time that reserve components of the Armed Forces have wrestled with the problems posed by the planning and managerial aspects of a mushrooming, and major, industry of the 20th Century — organized research.

The sessions, which opened this past Monday morning with an appropriate display of civilian and military "brass," were largely conceived by the 30-plus members of Company 4-I, brought into being 11 years ago as a "plank unit" in the Naval Research Reserve. At once, the Chiefs of Naval Reserve warmly endorsed the proposal to broaden the conceptions of military research administrators, added the seminar to their Active-Duty-for-Training Program, and invited representatives of the other Services to combine forces here at the Graduate College for a fortnight.

Indicative of the scope of the two-week program was the initial "pick-and-shovel" meeting at which two of the three principal speakers were Princetonians, currently serving the nation in Washington in key policy-making posts in research and development. "The Organization for Research and Development in the Navy" was the topic of James H. Wakelin, formerly an active member of Company 4-I and now Assistant Secretary for the Navy, while "Air Force Research and Development" was the responsibility of Assistant Secretary Courtland D. Perkins, on leave from his normal duties as Chairman of Princeton University's Department of Aeronautical Engineering.

The challenge to the seminar participants, including 11 Army reservists as well as 10 members of the Air Force Reserve, was sounded by Rear Admiral Rawson Bennett, who warned: "You will receive a comprehensive review of the major problems affecting the military services and other government agencies and also the university, the non-profit research laboratory and the industrial research organization."

Five members of Company 4-I, together with physicist Herman L. Miller, one of the Air Force delegates, represent Princeton's active participation in the seminar which lists day-long inspection tours of the James Forrestal Research Center and the U.S. Army's Signal Research and Development Laboratory at Fort Monmouth. Captains Richard W. Baker Jr. and Edmund S. DeLong speak for the spheres of business administration and public relations, respectively, with Captain Herman M. Gurin, Captain Harry H. Hess and Lt. Commander T. Todd Rebound serving (in order) as standard-bearers in engineering, geology (or volcanology), and physics.

For seeking to raise ever higher the administrative standards of the country's Armed Forces; for facing up to the possibility that men of science may once again be called upon for "active duty"; for looking to the future—and never to the past; these men are our nominees for Princeton's

FANTASYLAND
Or, a Peek into the Future.
It has been brought to the attention of TOWN TOPICS personnel in recent weeks that a feature of considerable and continuing interest is Ten Years Ago, presented each Thursday at the tail-end of the paper's Round-Up column. Of course, some confusion results when portions of Ten Years Ago "jump" to back pages of a particular issue and become associated with current events, but this department has tended to attract rather than detract readers.

There is a worthy case in point regarding the woman who read one of these "jump" portions of Ten Years Ago and, on spying an acquaintance while marketing remarked, "Did you notice in TOWN TOPICS that Mrs. X had twins?" Her occasionally observant friend replied, "No, but I thought she'd been putting on a lot of weight." (And to think, Mrs. X may have nothing but 10-year-olds around the house and visions of slenderness in mind!)

This week, just for the summer fun of it, TOWN TOPICS will offer herewith a brand-new feature, Ten Years From Now. Such an adventure in journalism represents no easy task, so this may well be the last as well as first number of Ten Years From Now. Samplings have been drawn from various departments of TOWN TOPICS, August 27, 1970:

●After a week-long series of conferences in the Butler Lewis Ballroom atop the newly renovated 10-story Nassau Inn, medical men from all parts of New Jersey have reached a unanimous verdict on the cause of the sleeping sickness now gripping residents of Bayard Lane. Their de-

Andy 'Dandy'; Ann—'Man'

Until the New York Times Book Review revealed the fact this past Sunday, few persons—including Princetonians—knew that Howard Cox of Princeton Junction has controlled the lives of Raggedy Ann and her playmate, Raggedy Andy, since 1939. The matter came to light with an announcement that Bobbs-Merrill has purchased the publishing rights in the much-loved children's stories.

Mr. Cox, 68, who has been running the business from a reconstructed garage on his farm for the last year, reported that he doesn't feel like working as hard as before, so will concentrate solely on the commercial end of the Ann-Andy combine (dolls, dresses, etc.). For two decades, 1939 to 1959, he operated the enterprise out of an office in the Time-Life Building in New York.

"Enterprise" is the proper word to describe the not-so-raggedy business, for some 8,000,000 copies of the Raggedy books ($2 edition) have been sold since Ann first bounced on the scene back in 1918. According to Times research, books plus subsidiary items, such as the aforementioned dolls and dresses, constitute an eye-catching $50,000,000 gross business.

cision: Route 206-A By-Pass, which last week diverted truck traffic for the first time in countless sleepless nights.

●Mayor Martin McQuinn of Princeton Consolidated has requested State aid for completion of construction of the TP&B (Turnpike & Back) monorail, scheduled to link Princeton's 8,000 daily commuters with the new monorail system along the Turnpike. A veto is expected from Governor Raymond E. Fife because of the young mayor's GOP leanings, and the fact that Mayven has been declared off-limits for Consolidated employees.

●It's New to Us — those oh-so-trendy space suits which the English Shop is spotlighting at its Heavenly Sale this week. These, in every color of the rainbow, are strictly Interplanetary League, you know. They were fashioned exclusively for The English Shop by a certain well-known Palmer Lab prof who visited Mars recently and cornered the market on the material, ray gun-proof at $3.75 a yard.

●Business - wise, Renwick's Inc., liquorless Princeton landmark, has filed its 13th appeal with the ABC, protesting then-Borough Council's action of 1960 that resulted in a retail license for The King's Court. Meanwhile, Consolidated Council-Committee, using the 1970 Census figures as a guide, will issue five additional off-Nassau Street licenses. As predicted, Renwick's will either object or move.

●Ken Kouffler, who returns the tradition of "alumnus coach" to the Princeton University football scene, will take charge of the Tigers (he's known as a "take-charge guy") on September 1, when candidates for the 1970 varsity zoom by superjet to the Blairstown training camp. Kouffler was tapped by his alma mater after single-winging Lawrenceville School's griders to a dozen straight undefeated seasons.

●At the Princeton Playhouse, first movie theatre in the east to install a circular screen to match its plush, rotating chairs, the new feature is "Ben-Hur and Her," musical version of "Peyton Place" co-starring Eddie Hodges and Brenda Lee in their initial "adult" roles. The main-

PERSONALITIES

Dr. Merlin D. Peterson, Providence Line Road, highly competent and highly respected director of Industrial Reactor Laboratory, Inc. of Plainsboro, who has tendered his resignation to accept the position of deputy associate laboratory director for education at Argonne National Laboratory, operated by the University of Chicago for the Atomic Energy Commission. A civic minded citizen and loyal officer of the Princeton Kiwanis Club, Dr. Peterson will long be remembered by audiences in this area as "the wonderful speaker who really showed us how an atomic reactor works."

Dr. Frederick M. Haubinger, 55 Little Road, State Commissioner of Education and Mayor Raymond F. Male, 76 Cedar Lane, State Commissioner of Labor and Industry, who have issued a joint appeal to the teenage youngsters of New Jersey, urging them to return to school this fall and finish their education. ROUND-UP

Around Town: In a continuing effort to make the Princeton area more appealing to light industry and research firms, West Windsor Township has rezoned approximately 1,200 acres of U.S. 1 land, formerly restricted to rural and business uses. Located west of Alexander Road, one portion of the acreage, including property from the highway to the canal, extends from Duck Pond Run to Alexander while another chunk, on the south side of U.S. 1, runs to Bear Brook to Meadow Road and back to the highway. Borough police received notification at 12:45 a.m. Sunday that teenager Donald Madaleno of 58 Leavitt Lane, reported missing from home for several days, had returned after an unscheduled visit with friends in Hightstown. Miss Phyllis Riley of the Princeton Gourmet Shop, 84 Nassau Street, informed the same police that some merchandise—a set of four glasses, a set of knives and a piece of pottery—were shoplifted from her place of business sometime last Thursday.

Affairs of State: With the number of seasonal farm workers at the yearly high point, a new record in production has been registered by New Jersey cultivated blueberry growers. Preliminary estimates, according to the Division of Markets, Department of Agriculture, indicate a 1960 crop of about 1,800,000 trays (12 pints), or 490,000 higher than last year, for one of the longest harvest seasons on record. Along the same line, an average yield per acre of 13.5 tons of tomatoes for processing, a new all-time high mark, has been forecast for 1960. New Jersey is tied for second place behind California with Ohio and Iowa in per acre yield. The State Health Department, while not endorsing swimming in the Delaware and Raritan Canal, has announced that such bathing is "safe," except near Kingston and the Weston Bridge, where slight pollution apparently exists. Asked by a weekly newspaper editor if he believes evolution should be taught in New Jersey's public schools, Governor Meyner this week replied, "I am completely in favor of teaching science. If modern science teaching includes the theory of evolution, I am in favor of it."

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, August 21, 1950—It seemed to be statistical summertime in Princeton...counterfeit $20 bills, circulating throughout Mercer County, were in evidence here, and close inspection indicated their phonyness, since all carried the same serial number. Trenton barbers said they were considering hiking the price of haircuts to $1, which gave rise to speculation that University undergraduates might go unshorn if Princeton clippers followed suit. Census-takers confirmed that Princeton's population was 11,865, including some 4,200 students. —Continued on Page 13

THREE STILL "CRITICAL"

After Mercer Road Accident. Three victims of an accident on Mercer Road last Saturday were still in critical condition at Princeton Hospital at mid-week. The accident, which occurred in front of Princeton Battlefield, sent a total of nine to the Hospital, three of whom have since been released.

Included among those still classed as "critical" was Mrs. Virginia Switten of 202 Moore Street, driver of one of the two cars involved. According to Township police, she was making a left turn when struck broadside by a car driven by Charles Marshall of Trenton. Mrs. Switten's auto overturned and skidded 138 feet into the face of the impact, with her four passengers, all members of a family from Hinsdale, Mich., thrown free.

Two members of the family, G. Austin Kuhns, a high school music teacher, and his 13-year-old daughter, Carol, were both critically injured, with Mr. Kuhns sustaining a fractured spine and Carol, a pelvic fracture. Mrs. Kuhns, who is Mrs. Switten's sister, had a fractured wrist, rib and clavicle and was listed as in fair condition. The fourth member of the family, 15-year-old Robert, suffered only a concussion and was released on Sunday.

Also released after a brief stay in the hospital were the driver of the other vehicle and one of his passengers, Clarence Phelps, 19, of 293 Witherspoon Street. The other two passengers, Philip Hudson, 21, of 24 Leigh Avenue, and Ralph Dillard, 19, of Trenton, were still in the hospital, the former in fair condition and the latter, good condition.

Although police have not yet completed their investigation, they know both Mrs. Switten and Mr. Marshall were travelling towards Trenton when Mrs. Switten attempted her left turn and was hit by Mr. Marshall, who was trying to pass. No eyewitnesses have been found, but a number have testified to seeing the Marshall car travelling down Mercer Road at a high rate of speed.

Both cars were a total wreck, with Mrs. Switten's auto blocking traffic in one lane of Mercer Road for some time. Patrolmen Michael C. Koplner Jr. and Samuel List are investigating the accident.

EVIDENCE OF BAD COLLISION: This totally demolished vehicle, driven by Mrs. Virginia Switten of 202 Moore Street, was struck and overturned on Mercer Road last Saturday. The bad collision killed nine persons at Princeton Hospital, as reported in a detailed story on this page. (Staff Photo)

Other Mishaps Listed. In addition to the Mercer Road accident, four other mishaps were recorded during the week in the two Princeton municipalities. Although there were no serious injuries, extensive property damage occurred in at least two of the accidents.

In the Township, Clarence E. Housel, 43, of 153 West Franklin Avenue, Pennington, was injured and had the front end of his truck damaged when he hit a car driven by Mary W. Van Marter, 16, of the Rocky Hill Blawenburg Road, Blawenburg at the intersection of Valley and Jefferson Roads last Thursday. Miss Van Marter suffered slight injuries and the front and side of her car were damaged. A hearing has been issued a summons for careless driving.

Also last Thursday, George Angeloukakis, 20, of Trenton, hit a tractor-trailer owned by Borzath Fuelis, Inc., at the curve in the Princeton - Kingston Road in front of the Old Mill. Both vehicles were damaged seriously and Mr. Angeloukakis has been charged with failing to keep to the right.

The third mishap recorded in the Township, the only one involving only minor damage, occurred Monday morning at the corner of Quaker and Mercer Roads. R. V. Herwig, 20, of the Blawenburg/Rocky Hill Road, allegedly went through a stop sign to strike the car of Richard W. Meyer, 24, of Carnegie Drive.

In the Borough, one accident led to another as a Borough patrol car, its red light flashing and its siren on, crashed into another car on Stockton Street Monday afternoon. The patrol car was on its way to investigate an accident at Elm Road and Stockton Street.

Stopped on Stockton Street behind a truck, Alex Henley, 63, of 240 Church Street, Trenton, pulled out of the east line of traffic into the west lane and directly into the path of the patrol car driven by Harry Kahny, 26, of 25 Madison Street, according to Borough police. No one was injured although both cars were moderately damaged.

Henley was charged with passing a no-passing zone and failing to yield the right of way to an emergency vehicle. He did not carry any automobile insurance.

JOHN W. KAUFFMAN NAMED

To National Hospital Group. John W. Kauffman, Administrator of Princeton Hospital, has been elected to the Board of Regents of the American College of Hospital Administrators. It was announced this week. In making the announcement, John H. Wallace, Jr., President of the Board of Trustees at Princeton Hospital, said that Mr. Kauffman had been elected by Members and Fellows of the College from Region 4, which comprises the states of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and the District of Columbia. Currently entering his fifteenth year as Administrator of Princeton Hospital, Mr. Kauffman has served in recent years as President of both the New Jersey Hospital Association and the Middle Atlantic Hospital Assembly. He has been active in the affairs of the College as well as the Hospital Association.

The American College of Hospital Administrators aims at elevating the standards of hospital administration, promoting standards of training and education for hospital administrators and recognizing noteworthy services and achievements in the hospital administration field. The College is

— PENS JUMPER

You're high, Pens, that nifty storm during the wee hours Monday morning was a real shocker—25 minutes' worth of atmospheric fireworks. Its aftermath didn't lower the humidity here right away, but, by midweek, the weather seemed to be getting clearer and cooler.

The Weatherman, whose batting average may soon force him out of the big forecast leagues, isn't ready to call it quits yet, so he's taking a crack at the coming weekend, for better or worse. His best guess: continued cooler, blue skies and livable humidity.

Mr. Wallace said that the Princeton Hospital Board of Trustees consider the election of Mr. Kauffman "a distinctive honor for Princeton Hospital as well as for Mr. Kauffman." He said the Board was "extremely pleased" that the Administrator's outstanding service to the community and to the Hospital has been so recognized.

ODD BOOKS: So say Francis Dux (left) and Joseph Ragno, the two gangster-comics surprised into Shakespearean costumes in the University Players' production of "Kiss Me Kate" which will run through Saturday at Murray Theatre. Their duet, "Brush Up Your Shakespeare," brings down the house. Another outstanding number in the show is "It's Too Damn Hot," ably sung and danced by Curtis Hood.

News Of The THEATRES

MCCARTER REFURNISHED. Major Overhaul On. This fall, McCarter audiences will be pleasantly surprised, not only with the new program to be inaugurated by the Center for the Performing Arts, but also by the physical changes which promise more comfortable and exciting theatre-going.
Directing the refurbishing is Hugh Hardy, the Center's artistic director, who is assisted by Bernard A. Cooke of the Home Furnishing Shop. McCarter has a new house curtain made by the shop, which will also furnish new draperies.

The main stage will gain a new surface, replacing the former splintery floor, and a portable apron stage is in the works, which will extend over the first two orchestra rows. The latter improvement will make possible a more "intimate" atmosphere for certain types of plays, and the actors will be able to make their entrances from the audience.

Also slated are new lighting mounts in the rafters and new side lighting rails. Those seated on the sides will no longer have the distraction of lights hanging on the balcony rail. An idea of the scope of the work can be seen on page 4. Interior redecoration will include improvements in the lobby.

Never-Ending Repairs. During the past three years, McCarter has been repaired to the tune of an estimated $27,000. A new roof was installed in 1957, and last fall new wall-to-wall carpeting was laid and a new red velvet curtain hung.

Mrs. E. C. Bleicher of Lawrenceville painstakingly replaced the curtain insignia (the University seal and the Triangle emblem) after cutting out the old ones and copying them in brocade and embroidery.

"Comedy in Theatre" is the title of the opening series, which includes six plays. Each will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, as well as Saturday afternoons, beginning October 6.

The six comedies are: Pirandello's "Right You Are," Christopher Fry's "The Lady's Not For Burning," George M. Cohan's "The Tavern," Chekhov's "The Sea Gull," a Moliere-Anatole France synthesis entitled "Doctor for a Dumb Wife," and Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Reservations for the series may be made by calling McCarter, WA 1-8700, between 2 and 5 on weekdays, and tickets are on sale at the University Store. A reduction of 20% is given to those subscribing to all six plays, with prices ranging from $15 to $5.

Milt Lyon, currently directing the University Players' "Kiss Me Kate," is producer for the Center. He has produced Broadway package shows and TV spectacles.

YOU'RE ALL SINNERS: Burt Lancaster pleads for souls as the title character in "Elmer Gantry." The tale of sex, sin and revivalism is at the Playhouse through Tuesday.

for Max Liebman, among others, and has directed summer stock and Broadway productions. He has directed the last five Triangle Club shows, and has recently returned from an overseas trip with the 1959 company. Brooklyn Jones, former Triangle president, is associate producer. He was a leading performer and composer for the 1955 "Spree de Corps." The Center's general manager is Mrs. Herbert McAneny, curator of the theatre collection in Firestone Library and former McCarter manager.

Mr. Hardy, assistant to stage designer, Jo Medziner, will assist in the design of New York's Lincoln Center Theatre. In addition to serving as McCarter's artistic director,

THE PLAYHOUSE

Elmer Gantry (August 24-30) appeared as a novel in 1927. Now 33 years later, Sinclair Lewis' tale of a hypocritical revivalist has been made into a movie. Any relation between the two is superficial at best.

The most significant change wrought by director-adaptor Richard Brooks has been in the title character. For example, Gantry no longer entertains doubts before going out to pound the Bible. Instead, any mention of a specific denomination have been removed (Lewis' preacher was first a Baptist, then a Methodist) and Gantry is shown only after he has begun his mission. Whether these and other changes are for better or worse depends markedly upon the viewer's attitude towards the original work. One who found Lewis' Gantry believable (even if not particularly likable) will probably find the movie hero less so. On the other hand, at least some individuals who disliked the original Gantry will be happier with the film version. Those who can maintain a relative indifference towards Gantry himself will find Brooks has lightened and wadded up what was a lengthy, wandering story.

The movie stars Burt Lancaster, as the revivalist who still occasionally indulges in the pleasures of the flesh; Jean Simmons, as the true-believing Sister Sharon; Shirley Jones, as Lulu Baines, one of Gantry's early conquests who returns to cause considerable trouble; Dean Jagger, as business manager of the revival troupe; Arthur Kennedy, as the newspaperman; and a cast of hundreds of sinners who find salvation through Gantry. In color, the production runs for nearly three hours.

Oscar's 11 (August 31-September 7) presents Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Peter Lawford, Sammy Davis Jr. and Joey Bishop in one of the wildest robbery stories since Alec Guinness purloined a truck full of gold bars and melted them down into miniature Eiffel Towers. Disdaining to rob anything as commonplace as an armored car, a jewelry store, —Continued on Page 8

Classroom Culottes. A knee-length medium wide corduroy culotte, cut to look just like a skirt, is the favorite classroom fashion at Red Barn Casuals on Route 206 just north of Belle Mead. We saw it in olive, but it comes in copper, too. Same colors appear in a corduroy jumper with two giant pockets in front and a full line of buttons down the back.

Of course, to call these Red Barn clothes "college clothes" is to be restrictive: mothers and daughters and sisters and everybody else who likes casual wools and tweeds will wear them too, classroom or not.

For instance, there's a fall patterned cotton by Wamsutta, fashioned in two pieces with straight skirt, short-jacket with round collar and flat brass buttons. The general color is a deep copper brown. With it, carry a safe green leather handbag ($25.99), soft as an expired balloon, and trimmed with brass hardware. A spice brown cotton knit dress, tied in front, is done in a rib knit with purpl side out.

Sweaters! Red Barn matches a fur blend cardigan and a straight skirt, both in a warm shade of camel. The Ragamuffin is a bulky wool, polished off with a six-stitch ribbed collar that has looped fringe all around the edge. It comes in every color a ragamuffin could come in.

Here's a hooded slipover sweater ($17.98) in small checks of black and lime, and a char green or char purple slipover with wide collar and four buttons down the front closing. It's wool and mohair.

Classic tweed reeters from England will make you wish for cold weather. Some are cut with a yoke in back, some without, but the tailored, classic style is predominant whatever the cut. Tweeds vary in color and shade. In this British collection there are also car coats with wide grey snap collars. One rascally beautiful car coat is knit in a warm shade of brass, with racoon collar.

From Scotland come tweed suits that combine pastel yarns in unusual ways. These feature a Chanel jacket and straight skirt.

Men's wear grey wool appears, of all places, on the sides of a handbag. The wool has been used with black leather for an every-day bag with facile opening. An olive and black plaid bag has a black leather belt with brass buckle, just where you'd expect a belt to be; right around the middle.

Before we close, we point out two knit dresses of note: a cotton Joseph's coat in stripes, with drawstring waist, boat neck and raglan sleeves; and a wool and cotton full-skirted dress with jewel neck and three-quarter sleeves. It comes in cherry red or black.

HEREND FROM HUNGARY
Farolain at Town Shop. A charming provincial set of porcelain has come to The Town Shop on Palmer Square from Herend of Hungary. The pieces—which are all in the accessory class—are white with birds painted on the sides in soft pastels and greys. It's the Rothschild bird pattern in case you collect such information.

A sugar shaker about five inches high has a porcelain rose on top and the demi-tasse pot has a yellow rose in the middle of its lid. The big tureen has a lemon for a handle, and so have

Over The Top

The tunic that slips down over the shirt, or is worn all by itself with a contrasting or matching skirt, is the school-girl uniform for this fall.

At Red Barn Casuals on Route 206, you'll find a green and sand plaid wool tunic called a "put-over" which you wear with a matching straight skirt, or with taupe tapered slacks. The "put-over" has a zipper down the back and the tunic which ties carelessly in front.

Another Red Barn tunic is blue and white striped cotton sewed into a shirt which you wear, belted, over a frisky pair of copen wool knee-tickers. When it gets cold, you cover—not your knees but your top with a white orlon pullover that looks exactly like curly-headed lamb's wool. It has straight lines, an unadorned neckline and a slot so you can pull it on over your head.

the small tureens, which you might use for—well, for a small soup, we suppose.

Individual pieces have designs which complement the birds in various ways. Radishes, plums and nuts adorn a gravy boat. There are some lady-bugs here and there, on casseroles, and strawberries on the jam pot.

Ashtrays are shaped like hearts; salt and pepper are egg-shaped, the candle-stick is shaped so that it can be a candelabra or a single stick.

Ask a fall bride if she'd like some pewter. Town Shop has three-inch pewter; squirrels which are really salt and pepper shakers, and branching candelabra which are really three-candle candlesticks. (High or low, in candelabra.)

Guernsey jugs and porringers are always useful pieces to have around, whether you collect pewter or not, and Town Shop has them in brushed or high finish. A casserole in Chippendale design makes an imposing serving piece, with its three-dimensional scallops and its convex, knobbed lid. Buy the groom a glass-bell-tomed mug emblazoned on the side with various tavern signs.

Our favorite clock is a plexi-glass sphere with a 15-jewel Swiss clock inside. Its face is gold with black Roman numerals or white with gold Arabic figures, and its whirling little works are plainly visible through the glass at the back. It belongs on a desk with—Continued on Page 22 or even Fort Knox, the quietest knooks over five Las Vegas casinos in one daring New Year's Eve holdup, employing basically the same trick which was used to quiet things down at the Democratic National Convention.

The fast-moving, 127-minute spoof opens with Danny Ocean (Sinatra) collecting his crew from the far corners of the country to undertake the ambitious scheme. After breezing through the robbery itself, the "gangsters" make their escape in a garbage truck driven by Sammy Davis Jr., who comments as the others are blocking their faces to avoid detection. "I knew this color would come in handy some day." From there on in it's a question of what to do with the money: in the end it proves too hot to handle.

Besides the basic plot, "Ocean's 11" offers authentic shots of shows at the Desert Inn, Sands, Flamingo, Riviera and Sahara, hotbeds: a song, "E-O Eleven," by Sammy Davis Jr., and another; "Ain't that a Kick in the Head," by Dean Martin; and brief appearances by Red Skelton, George Raft and Shirley MacLaine. Backing up the basic five are Richard Conte, Angie Dickinson, Cesar Romero, Mike Chase, Akim Tamiroff, Henry Silva, Buddy Lester and Patrice Wymore. Based on a story by Clayton Johnson and Jack Golden Russell, "Ocean's 11" was written for the screen by Harry Brown and Charles Lederer and directed and produced by Lewis Milestone. In Technicolor and Panavision. Recommended.

RAYBURN REAPPEARS

At Bucks Playhouse. For the fourth time Gene Rayburn, popular television personality, will be back on the stage of the Bucks County Playhouse when he opens there next Tuesday evening in "Come Blow Your Horn." The Bucks regular, supported by a fine cast, will remain for a two-week engagement.

"Horn" is a modern comedy about a bachelor and his younger brother. In the sophisticated world of the bachelor, his apartment and address book are the passports to social success. He does not quite approve of the same philosophy for his younger brother who comes to live with him and who learns the ways of the world and his older brother.

Brother is played by Warren Berlinger, who scored well on Broadway and Hollywood in "Anniversary Waltz" and "Blue Denim." Lovely Georgann Johnson is the only threat that the bachelor cannot weave into his tapestry design for living and loving.

COMMITTEE DOUBLES-UP

Township Trips to Save Time. In an effort to get construction under way as soon as possible, the Township Committee will both hold public hearings and receive bids on four projects at its meeting next Monday night. Although it has employed the same session, hearings-and-bid trick in the past, the Committee has never resorted to it on such a large scale.

Projects receiving this rush treatment include two sewer lines and two road construction jobs. The sewers are for portions of Prospect Avenue and Mountain Avenue, while the road construction covers White Pine Lane and portions of Pretty Brook Road.

Also on the agenda are hearings on ordinances to permit a cemetery at All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Church, to vacate and accept portions of Pretty Brook Road into the Township roads system; and to provide $2500 for consultants on the financing of the Township's Sewer Master Plan and on performance standards for light industry.

The Committee will hear a petition for a street light at the corner of Western Way, Southern Way and Cedar Lane at the session. Finally, it will introduce an ordinance to widen, curb and sidewalk Frain Avenue between Snowden Lane and Tee Ar Place.

FINAL CONCERT SET

By Community Band. The final concert of the current summer season will be offered by the Princeton Community Band this Friday night at 7 on the steps of Nassau Hall on the Princeton campus.

The program includes Samuel Barber's "Cordell March," Aaron Copland's "Outdoor Overture," Gustav Holst's "First Suite in E Flat," "Tournament of Trumpets" by Robert Russell Bennett and "Serenata" by Leroy Anderson. In the event of rain the concert will be postponed until Monday, August 23.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT: As indicated by the numerals inscribed on this "amazing" photo, it was 5:15 (p.m., that is) on a weekday at the busiest intersection — Nassau Street at Palmer Square — in Princeton. Granted, it was late August, and many residents were out of town vacationing, but it was also 1960 — and people had come to think of Princeton as a "jump" place, no matter what time of year. Borough police reported smooth traffic flow, few tie-ups at all hours. (Fred Porter Photo)

"READY IN TIME FOR RUTGERS TRAFFIC": That was the University-pleasing prediction this week of Borough Engineer Arthur Brokaw as he surveyed work on the long-missing link of Prospect Avenue Extension which will put Princeton-Kingston Road within easier reach of Palmer Stadium. The annual Princeton-Rutgers football game will be played here September 24 and, "despite three delaying rains, the new road will be ready." The latest of these rains caused the large puddle (foreground, near Riverside Drive), but it was pumped out and the roadbed leveled by Tuesday. Curbing (visible at Cedar Lane end of link) has been installed halfway, while work on sidewalks also has commenced. With a contract deadline of October 1, J. Vinch & Sons of Trenton has succeeded in progressing ahead of schedule. (Fred Porter Photo)

History: It's No. 55

No. 55 Stockton Street, Princeton, may never rank with 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, or 10 Downing Street, London but its present resident, Governor Robert B. Meyner, is doing his best to be well-remembered. In a forthright article in the current issue of Coronet magazine, wherein New Jersey's chief executive once again challenges the likes of Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York by insisting it is "the cruelest decision to create the impression that (bomb) shelters are an adequate defense," he has taken another giant step.

Governor Meyner's ideas on the subject are summarized in one thought-provoking paragraph: "A careful study of the probable nature of nuclear war has convinced me that these demands (for fallout shelters) do not fit the facts. There is only one way to assure the survival of 180,000,000 Americans. We must have peace. Not a cringing, cowardly 'peace at any price,' as destructive to human spirit as the most devastating defeat; but a peace predicated on strength, dignity and reason. This is a dynamic peace for which we must mobilize every resource at our command. And to achieve it, we must intensify the battle for control of nuclear weapons by an international agency."

Hunter vs. Farmer

Deer in the Princeton area will be better protected this year as the area will not be as well protected from deer. Rather than continue last season's open season, the Fish and Game Council has eliminated the antlerless deer season.

According to State Farm Bureau president Carlton E. Heritage, speaking for the farmers, who opposed the action, the decision will not permit reducing the deer herd "to within reasonable bounds." He said that even last year's open season hardly dented the large herd found in the northern counties.

"Each year the howl will get louder from the urban landowners who are suffering damages in Morristown, Millburn, Summit and other places in Somerset, Essex, Morria, Hunterdon and Mercer counties," he said. He claimed the Council's action went against the opinion of State Fish and Game director Dr. Heaton Underhill.

This Is Princeton

statewide gasoline price war resulted in a two-day shutdown by local dealers, with a second shutdown unlikely because a third of New Jersey's 6,000 gas stations remained opened during the first — price cuts were running as high as 33 cents per gallon, but the heaviest loser was a Lawrence Township resident who was fined $30 for punching the owner after being refused service at a closed station.

Plans were instituted to form a joint defense council for the Borough and Township, duplicating similar steps taken just nine summers earlier — the summer recreation program, supervised by the same gentlemen who is in charge in 1960. C. Edward Christian, concluded eight weeks of fun for 1,000 youngsters — Patrolman J. Danford Hagadorn, who will become a 10 year man September 1, was appointed to the Borough police force — every fire engine in the community went rolling down Nassau Street one afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock to discover they were chasing a scrap material blaze on the back of Norman Sassman's truck which was put out by the driver with a hand extinguisher borrowed from the Gerber Chevrolet Company.

The University Players stated their intention to present George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" commencing the following Tuesday, while the Princeton Summer Theatre, despite a premature finish at McCarter, promises to return in 1961. Walt Disney's initial full-length motion picture devoid of animated cartoon characters, "Treasure Island," was the current offering at the Playhouse and "Peggy," starring Diana Lynn, represented the standard summer fare being served at the Garden. In sports, a pair of forfeit victories over Monmouth Junction assured Tom Brophy's Princeton nine of a berth in the Twin-M league playoffs. Richard Coffe of Lawrenceville, now a Mercer County Freeholder, paced the Princeton club with a 2-6 betting average as it tied Hightstown for second place in the loop with a 1-9 regular season mark. Art Glone and Miriam Brokaw won the town's mixed doubles tennis tournament by trimming Robert Shaw and Robert Sullivan, 6-3, 3-6, 10-8.

Mr. Hofesang announced the committee's formation at a meeting of the Borough District Committee and women which had been called by Assemblyman Edward Sweeney. Mr. Hofesang stressed that the headquarters would serve democrats in both the Borough and Township. Mr. Sweeney, who has just returned from National Democratic Headquarters in Washington, D.C., said that 1960 would be a very close campaign year. He urged committee members to work for a maximum Democratic vote in November.

Democratic Committees in Princeton Borough are: first district, J. Keene Fleck, 40 Edwards Place; second district, Richard A. Lester, 121 Broadmead; and Mrs. Barbara van de Velde, 222 Western Way; third district, Philip Carroll, 338 Nassau Street; and Mrs. Ellen McKevien, 17 Fischer Avenue.

At the meeting it was also announced the Democratic Club would soon rent office space and trade W. Lannan, 27 Edwards Place, interested citizens are encouraged to assist in the campaign and headquarters activity.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In view of the extremely favorable reviews received by the present University Players' production of "Kiss Me Kate" at Murray Theater, it seems appropriate to present a somewhat different view of the matter. This letter is not meant particularly to be a criticism of the University Players or of their production, which was technically commendable as stated in your review.

It is meant to be a commentary on the sad state of the American theater, which seems incapable of developing any form of theater other than tragedy or comedy except that of illicit sex relations. There are without doubt many worse examples than "Kiss Me Kate," but the lyrics of the present production are so loaded with adultery and fornication as to rob the play of any worthwhile comic effects.

From "Wine It Wealthily In Padua," to "Too Darn Hot," "Where is the Life that Late I Led," "Faithful to you Darling in my Fashion," even to the potentially wonderful "Brush Up Your Shakespeare," the lyrics teeter with monotonous regularity on the glory of adultery and fornication.

If this is the popular musical theme, it is the folklore of our day, is there any wonder that we find ourselves in an age of increasing moral decay? I, for one, was grievously disappointed at the waste of talent and music which characterizes this production of "Kiss Me Kate" and much of the rest of the American theater.

DR. MACHLUP APPOINTED
To Two University Posts, Dr. Fritz Machlup, a noted international economist, has been appointed to two key posts in Princeton University's Department of Economics. Appointment of Dr. Machlup to the dual position was announced this week by Robert F. Goheen, president of the University.

Dr. Machlup will assume the Directorship of the International Finance Section, and has been named to the Walker Chair of Economics and International Finance. In the former post he succeeds Dr. Gardner Patterson, who relinquished the directorship in order to devote more time to his job as Director of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, and to his

Search For Male Song

A contest aimed at finding a song for the state of New Jersey has been sponsored by a pair of businessmen from New Brunswick and Neptune City. The contest has been picking up support from a number of statewide organizations and from two state officials.

The New Jersey American Legion and the Daughters of the American Revolution have offered to supply judges for the contest, while Professor A. Kunrad Kvam, chairman of the music department at Douglass College, has agreed to help in the selection of the song. Several songs have already been received. Entries may be mailed to the Gibbs Corporation of New Jersey, 115 Church Street, New Brunswick, or to the Neptune City Shopping Center, Route 35 and Third Avenue, Neptune.

position as Professor of Economics.

As Walker Professor, Dr. Machlup succeeds Dr. Jacob Viner, who formally retired on July 1. A graduate of the University of Vienna, Dr. Machlup spent two years as a Research Fellow with the Rockefeller Foundation and subsequently spent 12 years on the faculty of the University of Buffalo.

In 1947 he left the New York institution to join the faculty at Johns Hopkins University, where he remained for 13 years until his dual appointment at Princeton. A former acting editor of the "American Economic Review," Dr. Machlup has written extensively in the field of economics. The International Finance Section at Princeton University has conducted research in problems concerning the international financial affairs and policies of the United States. The Section has published the books and essays of persons who are not associated with Princeton.

TEA GARDEN BLOOMS

Cultivator: Edward Huey. This Thursday, opening day at the Princeton Tea Garden, 36 Witherspoon Street, should be a memorable one for regular patrons of the Chinese restaurant—and it undoubtedly will be the most memorable of all days to date for Edward Huey, proprietor of the Oriental eatery for the past three years. Mr. Huey, according to his own report, has been looking forward to the occasion for a long, long time.

"The first thing people do when they open a restaurant is to decorate it and put on a nice front," the owner explained, recalling 1957, the year he took over at the Princeton Tea Garden. "Instead of that, I installed the finest kitchen possible. On account of the new kitchen was able to increase my business. Now I am able to give my customers not only good cooking and good service but attractive furnishings and surroundings as well. For this I want to thank each and every one of my customers."

In the past several weeks, Mr. Huey's establishment has undergone a complete remodeling, inside and out. Inside, the lower half of all the walls has been covered with dark walnut wood paneling; the upper half has been covered with a white and gold-speckled paper. Chinese lantern-like fixtures have been suspended from the ceiling; and the seating capacity has been increased slightly to 70. Outside, a new wooden facing, including a six-foot by eight-foot picture window, has been installed.

"Give first and take later is my motto," Mr. Huey confided, by way of informing Princetonians why he was so insistent on providing good food and services before providing the restaurant with a sorely needed renovation job. "I'm very proud to say that we've been able to increase our business since, in three years," he added.

On Menu: 100 Dishes. Open every day except Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., the "new" Princeton Tea Garden will boast a 100-dish menu, including among its 10 additions such delicacies as lobster with roast almonds and vegetables, steamed Chinese mushrooms and steamed stuffed lobster tails, and will feature special deluxe family dinners for two or more. The latter, comprised strictly of specialties of the house like Fong Wong egg roll (rather than ordinary old egg roll), will afford families the same high quality at lower cost.

"As far as our cooking goes," Mr. Huey stressed, "it's bonafide Chinese style—no half and half. For persons who prefer the old-fashioned type of Chinese cooking (not bastardized to suit American tastes), the Witherspoon Street restaurant has steamed, fresh fish, steamed

ORIENTAL ORANGE AND BLACK: Edward Huey, owner-operator of the Princeton Tea Garden, stands in front of an attractive orange and black ornamental wall decoration, one of many signs of his renovated establishment. He has changed everything from frontage to tables and chairs. The business is slated to reopen at 11 a.m. this Thursday. (Staff Photo)

CARPET DOWN, RAILING NEAR-WROUGHT: Joseph Christian, amiable owner of Lahiere's Restaurant at 7 Witherspoon Street, stands ready to serve his customers at the foot of the establishment's new, curved stairway next to the newly located downstairs bar. Thick, red carpeting adorns the stairs, but a promised white wrought-iron railing will not be needed until a number of upstairs attractions are completed, sometime next month. Lahiere's is now reopened after extensive remodeling. (Staff Photo) poor, beef, Moo Goo Gai pan (white chicken meat with mushrooms), sweet and pungent pork, etc., etc.

Having come to the United States from Canton in southern China in 1936, Mr. Huey for many years owned and operated an Oriental eatery in Far Rockaway, N.Y., which was four times larger than his present place of business. "But I decided to move to Princeton anyhow," he went on, "because, as far as I'm concerned, you can't beat Princeton in any way. It's a good place to raise a family. And people in Princeton are knowledgeable eaters and fine customers. People in Princeton know more about Chinese food than people anywhere else in America."

At the Princeton Tea Garden, Mr. Huey is the chef and he is aided in the kitchen by his wife, who is an excellent preparer of Chinese food in her own right. Their son, Tom, is charged with responsibilities in the front portion of the restaurant, which has six employees in all.

Nini of the Shelton Motor Company, 298 Witherspoon Street, attended a meeting Monday of Plymouth and Valiant dealers from 12 eastern states who received a preview of the forthcoming new lines of the 1961 models of the two cars. The preview showing was held at Convention Hall, Philadelphia.

The first appearance of the 1961 Plymouth, with its most complete changes in recent years, highlighted the dealers' preview, which included a look at the debut of the new line of Valiants. For the first time in

TRAMPOLINES CALORE

Princeton May Get Some. That not-so-crazy craze which seems to have tickled California's collective funny bone—trampoline—has come to the Greater Trenton area, and Princeton proper may well be the next stop (or hop, if you prefer the trampoliners' vernacular). So says Donald Mancino, trampoline titan in nearby Ewing Township, who has been negotiating with Princeton Shopping Center officials to determine if he might rent ground and space and locate another bouncing center north of Bamberger's.

"Things are still very much up in the air," Mr. Mancino confided this week, finding it difficult to remove twists of the trampolinist's tongue from his speech. "Their rental figure is way up there, and I can't consider a Princeton project until they bring it back down to earth."

Mr. Mancino, pointing with pride to his brand-new outdoor facility at 1557 North Olden Avenue (nine miles from Princeton), said he intends to give Princetonians "only the best." If he ever receives approval of his

Guard in Mock War

Nearly 1,250 members of the New Jersey Air National Guard are currently engaged in a mock war. They are taking part in Exercise Bright Star, Fine Cone III, a maneuver which simulates combat conditions. The guardmen's participation in the maneuver is concurrent with their annual two-week summer subordination.

McGuire Air Force Base is headquarters for 798 of the guardmen, while the remaining 447 are stationed at the Air Guard base adjoining the Atlantic City Airport. All are working in support of the 25,000 troops on the maneuver's front line in the Fort Bragg, N.C., area. The purpose of the troops with experience in operating in a limited-conflict situation.

The hypothetical war involves two mythical countries, located about 3,000 miles from the U.S. One is a satellite of "Aggressorland," the other has been an ally of the United States since the withdrawal of American World War II occupation forces. A border dispute between the neighboring countries steadily worsened until the aggressor invaded U.S. Air Guard, Air Reserve, Air Force and Army units have rushed in to defend our ally. Their aim is to push the aggressor forces back across the hypothetical border.

elaborate plans. Meanwhile, he urges those who haven't tried the fun at his plant to drive Trentonward and do so.

Thus far, proprietor Mancino's enterprise is composed of two prominent features: (1) Bounce-land, where a staff of 22 well-trained supervising stands (refer, hops) ready to provide free instruction at 20 trampolines (50 cents per half hour), and (2) Continued on Page 22

OF 6 APPEALS

For New Post Office, The Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council, supported by more than 20 merchants, research organizations and service companies in the Princeton area, has urged that a new post office be constructed in Princeton, citing inadequate work areas and poor mail handling and delivery equipment as prime causes for delays in delivery of mail, the Chamber has sent a formal appeal to the Regional Director of the Post Office Department.

Postmaster Murray has advised the Chamber that the present post office, established to handle a population of 12,000, is currently handling a postal load equal to that of a population of 250,000. R. L. Lenhart, chairman of the Chamber's Post Office Committee, said the appeal points out that postal deficiencies have been worsening in the past 15 years.

In discussing the letters he, as chairman of the committee, had received from Chamber members, Mr. Lenhart said, "The findings of the Chamber members are unique in that they reveal opinions that all of the deficiencies are in outmoded, congested working areas and lack of proper mail-handling equipment. Without exception, all letters pay marked tribute to present post office personnel for outstanding service in spite of the almost insurmountable work load."

PIPELINE FOR THE PRESS: What appears to be a barricade erected across Olden Street (top picture) is the excavation dirt from a trench dug for the installation of a water line (bottom picture) to the Princeton University Press. One block long, the new line was needed to boost the dangerously low water pressure at the Press and thereby insure the operation of its sprinkler system.

DRIVE ORGANIZED

By Division of UCF, Organization of the Research and Industrial Division of the 1960 campaign of the Princeton United Community Fund is nearing completion under the leadership of Robert P. Popino, chairman of the division. The goal of the Research and Industrial division for 1960 is $234,000, an increase of 15 percent over the amount collected in the drive last year.

A two-hour organizational and briefing session with representatives of research firms in the area was held recently at the YN-YWCA. In addition to several addresses by key members of the fund drive organization, Mr. Popino distributed a folder containing general instructions and pertinent statistical information to his solicitors.

Representatives of participating companies in the area who attended the meeting heard Fred M. Blaicher, President of the Princeton United Community Fund, observe that "responsibility" was the key word of the campaign. He predicted that despite the large amount of the goal, the $234,000 would be collected.

Another speaker, Clement V. Conole, chairman of the 1960 UCF campaign, said "we must obtain increased corporate and business gifts based on comparative giving in other United Funds of our approximate size. This is not," he declared, "a matter of applying pressure, but of selling the idea needs to be done for the community."

Members of the drive on the Research and Industrial level include: George R. Bent, AeroChem Company; H. M. Mary, Heligate, Aeronautical Research Association of Princeton; M. J. Duggan, American Cyanamid Company; A. L. Keiser, Jr., American Institute of Public Opinion; M. T. Jacobs, Applied Sciences Corporation of Princeton; W. W. and the four township posts." The candidates for the Lawrence positions have pledged their "wholehearted and continuing aid" to the mobile registration drive. The mobile unit will visit Lawrence township on Tuesday, August 30 at the Lawrenceville Firehouse, and on Wednesday, August 31 at the Lawrence Road Firehouse.

In addition, registration will be held at the County Clerk's office, Mercer County Court House on Saturday morning, September 24, from 10 a.m. to noon and from Monday, September 26, through Thursday, the 29th, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Deadline for registration is September 29.

Lawrence Township residents may also register for voting at the township clerk's office, 2207 Lawrenceville Road, each day until September 29, Monday through Friday. Office hours are 9 to 4. In an announcement last week, the Lawrence Township Democratic Club officers named Candidates McGasperis, Hunter, Russo and Lovelless as honorary chairmen of the club's annual outing, which is scheduled for Sunday, September 18, at Columbia's Grove. Tassie A. Calavita, general chairman of the outing, will name his full committee at Thursday's meeting.

JAYCEES SPONSOR PICNIC

For Neuro-Psychiatric Youth, Forty-five children from the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute were treated to a picnic last week, when the Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with several merchants who donated food and toys, sponsored its annual outing on the Institute grounds. Seven members of the Princeton Jaycee Group attended the affair, which included sports activities for the Institute youngsters.

Bambergers, the Ivy League

Bakery, Nills Bakery and the Batt Bakery all donated cookies, doughnuts, and hot dog rolls free of charge, while toys were sold to the Jaycees at a discount by the Princeton Shopping Center Stationers, and the Union-Op of Trenton. The three hour picnic, which began at 2:00 p.m., included tug of war games, a balloon hunt, baseball, and the presenting of toys to the youngsters.

Attending on behalf of the sponsoring group were Jim Dawson, John Ehman, Don Krusz, Rick Mathews and his bride-to-be Miss Marlene Gibbs, Walt Morgan, John Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Len Stoskay. Eight students from the Institute also attended the affair.

TO HOLD GLADIOLUS SHOW

In New Hope. The New Hope Historical Society has announced that it will sponsor a gladiolus show, presented by the Delaware Valley Gladiolus Society, in the Perry Barn on Saturday, August 27. The Barn is located adjacent to the Bucks County Playhouse. Featuring recent introductions and new seedlings, the show will include a display of colorful blooms that have never before been shown. Because the Bucks County Crafts Show, now housed in the Perry Barn, will continue through September 5, the visitor on August 27 will get "two for one."

The Gladiolus Show will be open to the public from 1 through 9 p.m. on Saturday. All who attend will be eligible for the free offer by the Delaware Valley Society, which offers new bulbs as a promotional gift.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN

Five Registration On Sept. 1. Seven Franklin Township schools will be open for registration on September 1 at 11 a.m. for all kindergarten children who have not yet been registered. They are the schools at Elizabeth Avenue Pine Grove Manor, Hillcrest, Hamilton, Middlebush, Phillips and Kingdon.

According to an announcement by Sampson G. Smith, Franklin Township Superintendent of Schools, children may be registered in the central office in Pine Grove Manor any day previous to September 1 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Children from grades one through 12 may register at the central office or in any school in the district at the time noted above.

All parents should register their children as soon as possible, Mr. Sampson urged. He said this would avoid difficulties in changes in classrooms. The superintendent said he expected about 3300 children to register for the grammar school grades, and approximately 775 high school registrations.

IDA LIVES HERE: Although the paving and landscaping isn't completed, the Institute for Defense Analysis has already moved into its new 20,000 square-foot home between Nassau Street and Prospect Avenue just off Murray Place. When everything is finished, the University-supplied building will have a parking lot for 50 cars and a bicycle rack. (The latter item was not originally planned but became necessary with as more and more mathematicians showed up on bicycles.) It will have an entrance from Nassau Street and both an entrance and exit to Prospect Avenue. (Staff Photo)

SCIENCE In Princeton

IDA CHANGES QUARTERS
Occupies New Building. The Institute for Defense Analysis, a top-level mathematical research group, has moved into its new 20,000 square foot building adjoining University Field. Supplied by Princeton University, the structure will provide more space than was available in the organization's former quarters at 76½ Nassau Street.

The building, comprising two wings joined by a foyer, is located in the center of the block bounded by Nassau Street, Murray Place, Prospect Avenue and Olden Avenue. In the office wing, which will be under security at all times, are 21 single offices, two conference rooms, three executive offices and three stenographic areas. The other wing, which will be open or closed depending on the type of work being done there, houses the library, lounge, lecture hall and computer.

Under a 10-year operating contract, the University will supply IDA with the $75,000 building in return for an annual payment and use of the organization's computer for 20 hours a week. The $1,250,000 machine, which is far larger than the computer presently used by the University, is in the basement of the new building.

IDA is a private non-profit organization created especially to do basic research under government contracts. In addition to the Princeton group, which is the communications research division, the organization has three branches in Washington, D.C., and one in Cambridge, Mass.

The communications research division is doing highly theoretical work on basic communications problems. It was established in 1958 and moved to Princeton last summer to take advantage of the University's mathematics department and the Institute for Advanced Study.

Although the Princeton group presently has a staff of only about 30, its plans to increase this number to 50 or 60 now that it has more space available. Dr. J. Barkley Rosser of Cornell University is serving as director of the group, with Dr. Richard A. Leibler as deputy director.

19th Hole Golf Driving Range, which boasts 33 automatic tees and a 300-yard range for golfing enthusiasts. Both units may be utilized from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. seven days a week.

Mr. Mancino stressed that he has set up the strictest sort of regulations at Bounceland. Each would-be bouncer is asked if he (or she) has previously jumped on a trampoline and if not, free instruction becomes a "must." All trampolines are well-padded, and their supporting frames have been installed in the ground to eliminate unnecessary height. A new safety belt is employed when experienced performers attempt advanced exercises.

There will be many more additions to "Mancinoland" before the facility is completed, the owner promised. Already under way is a large public swimming pool, while a miniature golf course will be constructed on the ample acreage in the near future. There are a few attractions for the smaller fry, and edible goodies for fry of all ages, according to Mr. Mancino, and "we haven't stopped expanding by a long shot."

For your favorite bride, buy a pair of Baccarat crystal decanters, long and deeply beveled and shaped rather like elongated teardrops. The cut is so deep that the pieces reflect light like prisms.

FOR BRIDE OR BALL

Gowns for Fall. The deep, rich shades of autumn replace summer's frivolities at The French Shop, 20 Nassau, where there are two splendid junior dresses that could be used for bridesmaids dresses or for ball gowns. One of them is short, made of velvet with a gathered skirt, "U" neckline front and back and little sleeves that look like tiny puffs but are really short sleeves pulled up in a tuck. A flat satin bow makes the front of the waistline. Choose from 14 colors, including black and white.

The second dress is a long formal sweep of tulle, caught up at the skirt back with three flat self roses. The dress is strapless, but may be converted by wearing a detachable pleated fichu with a flat rose in front. This gown comes in eight colors.

Mothers, at fall weddings, will wear velvet clip hats, fashioned in two tones of the same color. One has a satin-finish smoky blue velvet frame covered with ivy leaves in ombre shades of blue and green. The veil is smoky blue. Another is a clip made of two tones of any shade you like.

Cottons for fall look like vintage pressings from a winery, with deep shades of grape, lilac, winy purple and purplish copper predominating, in fact, one striped cotton shirtwaist at The French Shop combines all those shades. A sweater dress sticks to one or the other (choose from lilac or blue-purple) and offers you a bulky knit without buttons or collar, laced down the front with a tie print in which the solid color stands out above the rest. The print repeats in a belt.

Italian wool knits are straight, usually, with a slight fullness at the waist achieved by two soft pleats at each side. One has a cardigan neckline and another has a jewel neckline. They come in olive or slate blue.

Juniors will like the junior knits and the grey, black or mink wool dress with its "Persian lamb" (well, not really) clipped jacket.

A 364 INTERROGATION: Confronted with the interesting possibility of being able to bring one person back to life for the purpose of asking one question, Miss Peggy Coyle (left) and Miss Monica Arque, two Irish colleens, would each direct her question to a hero of Ireland. For the choices and question of other area residents, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: If you could bring one person back to life to ask a question of, who would it be and what would you ask him?

Where asked: Palmer Square.
Arturo Santora, 410 Nassau Street, musician: Jesus Christ. I believe in the after-life, but I would like to hear His clarification and explanation of what it is. We have it from the prophets, the apostles and Revelations, but it is colored by their own personalities. I would like to have it direct from Christ.

Miss Peggy Coyle, 1 Bayard Lane, waitress: I'd like to bring back St. Patrick and ask him, "Where did he go when he left Ireland the first time?" This has never been satisfactorily answered.

Miss Monica Arque, 44 Chestnut Street, Notre Dame High School student: I'd like to ask Kevin Barry, a famous Irish rebel killed when he was 18, what he would think of his native Ireland if he were alive today.

James Taetum, Bordentown, counselor for Princeton Hearing Center on Nassau Street: Abraham Lincoln. I'd ask him how true our history really is regarding him. There is so much attributed to him—how much of it is really factual?

Mrs. Richard Bergman, 165 Valley Road, housewife: Socrates. He had such a way of finding the truth beneath superficialities and illogic, something that seems to cover everything today. He would be a good man to get to the root of things. I don't feel you could ask him a specific question. He didn't answer questions, but asked them and by asking he got to the truth. He revealed your prejudices for what they really were — untruths.

James Oliver, 57 Hardwick Drive, Trenton, driver for Skillman Furniture: I'd bring FDR back and ask him for a few more details on the cause of the conflict between Japan and the United States. There's been a lot of controversy over what brought about the war with Japan and I'd like to hear his side of it.

Mrs. Fred Hersfeld, 252 Fisher Place, housewife: I would like to question Richard II and ask him if he were really responsible for all those atrocious crimes attributed to him.

Thomas Nind, Nassau Inn, engineer: I would like to find out from Shakespeare what he thinks of the various interpretations that have been made of his works, particularly the psychological interpretations. Does he think people are reading too much into his works and plays?

Mrs. Elsa Naumane, 100 Gulick Road, housewife: I would enjoy a conversation with Mr. Sevornarola. I'd ask him about corruption in high places.

Max Browning, 35 Dawson Road, manager of P.J. Wainford-Napoleon. Does he believe that his social reforms in France have had the impact on society that he wanted?

Mrs. Mary Nicholas, 24 Manning Lane, Lawrenceville, housewife: I'd like to bring Abraham Lincoln back and ask him if the treatment of the colored people today would shock and disturb him?

Jack P. Cady, Bound Brook, advertising manager of the Central Post: I would like to get from Franklin Roosevelt a complete rundown as to why the U.S. forces in Germany held off from occupying Berlin. Why did we wait and let the Russians take it?

Miss Freddie Dudley, a high school student from Houston, Texas, visiting Princeton, her former home town: I'd like to have a talk with Robert Browning who I consider to be one of the greatest poets. I would ask him now he was able to put into such beautiful words things that I feel but which I myself would never be able to capture so poetically.

Moses Sephula, 123½ John Street, a student studying sacred music at Westminster Choir College: Jesus Christ. I'd like to ask Him what is His plan for my — Continued on Page 24

Report from THE MAYOR

An Endorsement. At the special meeting of Mayor and Council last week, formal action was taken to assist the Princeton United Community Fund through approval of a number of resolutions submitted by Fund president Fred M. Blatcher. Though the campaign to raise $25,000 for 18 agencies will officially start September 15, the governing body has already voted its endorsement of the effort in behalf of these vital health, welfare and recreational services. Hundreds of citizens will be volunteering their services in the campaign. Their success is important to the continued demonstration of the concern in the community for making Princeton an ever finer place to live and to work.

A Reminder. E. P. Bourchard, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, has forwarded to each mayor a copy of President Eisenhower's recommendation designating September 17, 1960 as Citizenship Day. The date marks the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States on September 17, 1787. The President, noting that in addition to the newly naturalized citizens there are two and a half million young Americans who reach voting age this year, has urged local officials as well as all religious, civic, educational and other organizations to devote some time to the study of the oldest and most tested written constitution in the world.

Community Renewal. Municipal officials throughout New Jersey are studying the announcement by the State Planning Bureau of Federal financial assistance available to municipalities for the preparation of community renewal programs under Section 103 of the Housing Act of 1960. Such programs are to be municipality-wide in scope. Their basic purpose will be to identify and measure, in broad terms, the total need for urban renewal action in the community and to develop a long-range program for urban renewal action. Their aim will be to plan local action in connection with our master plan, workable program, capital improvement program, prospects for new development, and major highway and street programs.

Step By Step. The recommendations contained in master plans are stated generally and comprehensively. When local officials begin the process of implementing them, they need limited and specific project recommendations. The lack of this is a big reason why many master plans are completed, adopted and then all but forgotten in the day-to-day operations of local government. The step by step working out of the municipal program involves technical problems, and it would seem logical to retain the services of the consultant planner in helping to translate the plan to action based on carefully considered priorities.

Thursday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor" sessions are scheduled for Thursday, August 25, and Thursday, September 1, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings. The Mayor also looks ahead on the calendar to an opportunity to meet with the full membership of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce on September 7.

life and whether, when people look at me, they could see Christ in my life?

Mrs. Irene Banett, Columbus Boychior School, headmaster's wife; Doctor Charles Erdman, I have no specific questions. I'd just like to have an inspirational conversation with him. I used to love to hear him talk when he would reminisce about the past.

Bennie Brown, Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, hailer: I would like to ask Christ why there isn't more justice and peace in the world instead of so much treachery and misunderstanding.

Mrs. Minna Rosen, 181 Harrison Street, psychiatric social worker for the Princeton Medical Center: Einstein. What would he prescribe to make this a less chaotic world? Is there a chance of people learning to live together peacefully?

Alan Richards, Kingston Road, photographer: Abraham Lincoln. I would ask Mr. Lincoln, in view of all he did for the Negroes, what he thinks about the civil rights program in this country today? I would also like to know what he would have said to Mr. Khrushchev if he were in the same position Eisenhower was over the U-2 incident. Would he have apologized?

Miss Sally Greco, Santa Fe, N.M., inventor: I would like to bring back Thomas Edison who is sort of a hero to me. I've invented a thing called Ghost Host and I would like to ask Edison some questions about electronics. I have one of Edison's own notebooks in which he records all his reactions to his experiments day by day. It is the most perfect way to see the mind of a genius at work.

Edward Gallagher, Lower Makefield, Pa., sales manager for Lahiere-Kane: I would like to ask Franklin Roosevelt what he thinks of the world situation today. I believe that he was a competent and eloquent leader and that he might have some good answers to the world's problems.

PHS FOOTBALL, OUTLOOK-II
(This is the second of two articles on Princeton High School's football prospects for the 1960 season.)

Guided Muscles Needed. This being a year for unpredictable experiments, what with the long-hairs at Cape Canaveral and in Moscow worrying about the influences of speed and light and aiming sky-high, Joe Jingoli, chief scientist at Princeton High School's football launching pad, has decided to try some of the same. During the months ahead, he will experiment with such unpredictable as the transfer of a left-handed wingback to the all-important single wing tailback slot end, in turn, the installation of a left-side shift, since his leading quarterback contender is also a southpaw.

And, incidentally, Jingoli—aiming as sky-high as the brains in Florida and Russia—will be mightily concerned with the speed and light factors. His boys, 1960 model, are reportedly speedy—and light.

The key to his success as an experimenter, Jingoli admits, will be the move of Co-Captain Russ Perone, a swift runner with great pass-catching ability, from wingback, where he put his talents to full use last year, to tailback, where Perone, an untested passer and punter, must pass and punt as well as run. Jingoli has tremendous faith in the 155-pound sprinter, who led the Little Tiger scoring parade in 1959 with eight touchdowns, and he believes the co-captain, "with his splendid desire," will learn the triple-threat business in short order.

Assuming Perone produces as expected, Jingoli feels he has the makings of a well-balanced backfield with lettermen Howard Gould (200) at fullback and Ray Chibbaro (155) at quarter and former JV speedster Ernie Hunt at the wing post. Stiff competition should be offered by letterman Alan Wood, son of Dick Wood, the team's offensive strategist, at fullback and such ex-junior varsity luminaries as Gil Fisher at tailback, Ron Decker at quarter and Bill Lewis at the No. 3 back.

There will be other runners to consider, too, including seniors Jamie Jones and Pete Cossman and juniors Chuck Pemberton, Don Zuber, Ray Burnett, Roger Slayback, John Corcoran and Tom Olsen. What this season's sophomore crop will bring at harvest time is still in doubt, but Jingoli naturally hopes for fruitful results.

Questions mark Up Front. PHS, which operates its version of the single-wing on two-platoon basis, will have a wealth of candidates for the line assignments, but there will be a shortage of experience and beef, compared with 1959's forwards. Generally speaking, the offensive line will require much rebuilding work. In particular, the center and tackle positions—with only one letterman returning to fill the six holes (figuring three on offense, three on defense)—will cause the head coach and his associates their primary concern. Harvey Clark, a 190-pound tackle, is the lone letter-wearer mentioned, and he will have his hands full. The Blue and White coaching staff has an idea he will need considerable help from the likes of seniors Bill Wilson, Joel Knoelmayer, Sig Peterson and Tony Stefanelli and juniors Joe Cox, Bob Schwenker and Al Altieri, all tackles, and seniors John Dalia Pezza and Russ Eldridge and junior Tommy Voltz, center hopefuls.

The Little Tiger situation at the guard posts will be somewhat better, since the right side is manned by Co-Captain Dave Smith, a 185-pound dynamo, and fellow seniors Toivo Pihl and Mike Steele, while the left side is equipped with lettermen Norman Gaskins and Miles Truesdell and junior prospects Bob Copeland and Don Opydeck. Just 10 years ago, by the way, Smith's brother, Tom, co-captained an unbeaten Princeton High eleven—one of Jingoli's top clubs—and Smith looks for history to repeat. At the end positions, which were so well-endowed a campaign back, there will be good potential, with time required to see if it can develop. Lettermen Joe Beachel, a rugged blocker on the right flank, and Lamont Fletcher and Jim Harbour, a pair of beam-poles on the left side, will form the nucleus of this make-or-break contingent. Others counted on for heavy duty include senior Art Ridler and juniors Gary Mount and Sam Spangenberg behind Beachel and juniors Don Truesdell and Bob Gingen behind Fletcher and Harbour.

Plenty of Experience Here. Jingoli will have no problem in one department—coaching. In addition to Wood, who is commencing his 15th year in grid association with the head mnting, the Little Tigers will boast Gerry Groninger, on hand for his ninth campaign as defensive coordinator; Tony Borzok, starting his eighth season as frosh coach; and George Povillitis, a six-year man who triple-threats as end coach, JV boss and liaison between the junior varsity and freshman ranks.

While PHS has a question mark line, which may average as little as 175 pounds from end to end, and a number of other pre-season puzzlers, it also faces a challenging 1960 schedule as the Little Tigers seek to retain their Mercer County title. Mount Holly and Somerville will be among the missing—off to fight South Jersey and Group 4 wars, respectively—but Peddie will be back, representing a tough opener, and the rest of a demanding seven-game slate will include intracounty rivals Trenton High, Trenton Catholic and Ewing, plus shoreward opponents Freehold, Long Branch and Leonardo.

Perone, who has been sparking "informal" practice sessions with Smith for the past 10 days, was contacted this week by TOWN Topics and asked how he regards —Continued on Page 26 has team's chances for '60. He commented, "It's too early to tell, because we haven't scrimmaged or had any coaching yet." He said he and Smith are encouraged by the turnout of some 35 seniors and juniors for the "informal" sessions, adding that he hopes they'll enjoy "good fortune."

Jrall indicated he would be happy with a sequel to last year's 5-2-1 performance, though it's difficult for him to predict in view of his unpredictable experimentation. Of only two things is he absolutely certain at this juncture: (1) compulsory physical examinations for all varsity candidates will begin at 8:30 a.m. September 1 in the PHS nurse's office and (2) the initial "official" practices will take place immediately thereafter.

"IMPOSSIBLE" HAPPENS
Three-Way Tie for First. The
"impossible" happened this week, as it so often does in the world of sport, and three of the Tri-County Basketball League's four teams finished the regular 1969 season in a three-way deadlock for first place. Only the Princeton Athletic Club's sub-par record
(3-12), plus some amazing eleventh-hour developments, permitted the unprecedented wind-up.

Montgomery Township, winner of last year's crown appeared certain of the No. 1 spot this year, too, but somehow managed to drop both of its final-week replay games—once to South Brunswick, the other to Hightstown. As a result, all three of these clubs concluded their regular campaigns with identical 8-8 marks.

Thinking a three-way tie remotely possible, but never dreaming it would actually occur, loop officials originally had announced special playoff plans—just in case. Now, they have decided merely to proceed with the usual post-season playoffs, figuring that these series can determine a couple of matters instead of one.

By the luck of the draw, the young PAC entry—led by Notre Dame University junior Steve Hogarty of the ball-playing Princeton Hogarty—has picked Montgomery as its foe in a best-of-three set. This might be considered bad luck rather than good by some observers, in view of Montgomery's prowess a year back and in the early stages of this year's flag race, but the PAC has been building up steam of late while Manager Ted Lubas' team has been hampered by injuries to two key performers, the call to arms for another and the departure of Mike Sandusky, star catcher, for the Pittsburgh Steelers' pro football workouts.

Princeton, hoping for an upset showing which would stifle the trio of Tri-County front-runners, was scheduled to meet Montgomery away this Tuesday evening and at Princeton High School this Wednesday evening. Meanwhile, South Brunswick, paced by Dart-mouth's all-eastern outfielder,
Don Clob of Deans, and newcomer Hightstown, sparked by 18-year-old shortstop Roland Frushon Jr. of Hightstown High fame, were locked in the start of a similar best-of-three series.

The eventual winners of this week's two series will commence a final series next week to determine the exclusive authority of first place in the league.

Sports In Princeton

LINES DRAWN

Plainsboro vs. Sportsmen. Despite upset defeats in the first games of their semi-final round, the Plainsboro team, led by Green Gables in the opening contest of the semi-final round, turned the trick with two consecutive shutout wins over the challenging Nine. The Sportsmen, led by Sannino in their opener, revitalized by triumphing last Thursday, 7-2, and this Tuesday, 4-0.

For Plainsboro, it was stand-out pitching by Russ Watson and

Princetonians True PALS

Trenton's red-hot PAL baseball club, which swung into action in the 28th National Baseball Congress championships in Wichita this Wednesday's evening, has joined the elite 32 finalists for tough double-elimination competition to face "team" play, featuring a definite Princeton flavor. Joe Burns, former TPI pitcher, and Elmer Naples, current Orange and Black catcher, have formed an effective battery for the PALS, who recently became New Jersey's semi-pro champions and removed New York's winners from contention with two quick victories.

Not to be overlooked in mentioning prominent Princetonians in the Trenton cast is Bob Montgomery, veteran rightfielder who is still remembered for his top-notch performances while caving for Princeton High, then Pennington Prep. A lifetime member of both the Yankee and Philly farm systems and a star with the Turi Club semi-pro league last year, Montgomery earned WVI accolades in the New York series by tossing a perfect 9-0 for the plate for a game-saving double play.

Butch Chambers—spectacular hurlers all summer—that meant the difference this past week. Each was responsible for tossing a one-hitter in the series, the latter giving up only a scratch hit in the sixth inning of the finale with Green Gables on Tuesday.

Harry Kahny, the Sportsmen's mound ace when the club was down, pitched a pair of four-hitters to account for his club's success. In the 7-2 victory, Jack Feltz drove in four runs with a single, triple and home run.

TENNIS TOURNAY

Far Princeton Juniors. Beginning at 9 a.m. next Monday, and continuing daily through Friday, September 2, the YW-YMCA will sponsor a round-robin tennis tournament, open to all Princeton youngsters, on the new Princeton University courts near Baker Rink. Participants, asked to bring their own marked tennis balls, will be charged a nominal entrance fee of 25 cents.

According to Mrs. Lewis S. Kraft, 'Y' tennis instructor and secretary of the club, who is interested in registering for the tournament—including first-year players—should contact the 'Y' office at 4-4520 by Saturday of this week. Some 50-plus boys and girls already have signed up for the event.

ENGINE NO. 3 COPS TITLE

In Police Youth League. Engine No. 3 captured the championship in the Police Youth League by beating Post 78 two games to none in their three-game playoff series. The scores were, 13-2 and 4-0.

Albie Tolo, who has been touted to beat, then tossed a four-hit shutout for Post 78 to beat Engine 4-0 and enable his teammates to win the title. Ralph Procella, manager of the Police League, presented trophies to the champions.
